CHAPTER XVII.

FOR several days after rehearsals were over the strollers were free to amuse themselves as they pleased. Their engagement at the theater did not begin for another week, and in the meantime they managed to combine recreation with labor in nearly equal proportions. As busily as they devoted themselves to round of drives and rambles through pastures and woodland, however, they did not forget their studies. They had a Pontochartrain to Biloxi, the first settlement of the French, and to the battle grounds once known as the plains of Chalmette, where volunteer soldiers were now encamped awaiting orders to go to the front in the Mexican campaign. For a week they cycled and gazed at the three race courses—the Louisiana, the Metairie and the Carrollton—offered stimulating diversion.

Within sight of the Metairie were the old racing grounds, under the oaks, where, it is related, on one Sunday in 1839 ten duels occurred; when the contestants frequently fought on horseback with sabers, where the cowboys and the soldiers had been accustomed to seeing honor satisfied in this manner that they paid little attention to these meetings, pursuing their own humble duties indifferent to the follies of fashionable society. The racing grounds were the Wareroos' property around that odd, strange master of the blade, Specchia, a man, whose art embodied much of the finest shading and phrasing peculiar to himself, from whom even many of Bonaparte's discarded veterans were not above adopting new technique and temperament.

Shortly after the players' arrival began the celebrated Leduc matches, attracting noted men and women from all over the south. The hotels were crowded, the lodgings scarce, but many of the large houses hospitably opened their doors to visiting friends. The afternoons found the city almost deserted. The bartenders disinterestedly smoked in the solitude, the legion of waiters in the saloons and the local book and cloth, theatrical and professional followers of the events, the impudent tout, also mingled with the crowd, plainly in evidence by the pronounced character of his dress, the size of his diamond studs or cravat pin and the massive diamond rings on his fingers, the pearly, scrubby track eader was this ringleader of the day, a picturesquie rogue, with impudence as pronounced as his jewels.

Surrounded by a bevy of admirers, Susan, sprightly and sparkling, was an example of that "Fancy" of which she is made, with a fastiose of gauncis pins and ribbons that go to compound that multifarious thing, a well dressed woman." Every ready with a quiet retort, she bestowed her favors generously, the individuals differing but little in other her retinue, whom she had met several days before and who ever since had coveted a full harvest of smiles,liking not a little the first sample he had gathered. However, it was not Susan's way to intrust herself to the care of one, and in an instant to play one against another, to intercept snaky gleams, to hold in check chaste suitors—this was exciting and diverting—but she exercised care not to transgress those bounds where she ceased to be in the situation of the courtier, her limits far more remote, further set than most women would have ventured to place them, but without this temerity and the pastime would have lost its charm for her. She might play with edged tools, but she also knew how to use them.

Near her was seated Kate, indolent as of yore, now watching her sister with an indulgent, enigmatic expression, soon permitting a scornful glance to stray toward Adonis, who for the past few days had been in competition with a distinct change from country hounds, demureness and dainty wenchings with their rough hands and rosy cheeks. This lady's hands were like milk, her cheeks ivory, and Adonis in bewitching his attention upon her, had to restrain himself from exclaiming, "I am to return the favor for tatt for Kate's flaunting ways and to gratify his own ever feeling fancy.

In a box, half the length of the grand stand, removed some distance back from the rest of Susan's gay party, Constantine, Mrs. Adams and the soldier were also observers of this scene of animation.

Otherwise he made no display of feeling. He gazed upon the many scenes before him, bowing to one woman and smiling at another. "Oh, I couldn't stand a winter in the north," resumed the patroon, turning once more to the soldier, "although the men and women ought to press forward. His glances eyes exchanged were like the thrush and parry of swords. Without wishing to address the retort, and without rising a single instant, he was nevertheless impossible for the hot blooded southerner to submit to peremptory restraint. Who had made the soldier his taskmaster? He read Saint-Prosper's purpose and was not slow to retaliate. "I am not mistaken, youder is our divinity of the land," said the patroon softly. "Permit me." And he strode to pass. The soldier did not move. "You are blocking my way, monsieur," continued the soldier, simply. "I am not blocking your way." "This way or that way, how does it concern you?" retorted the land baron. "If you seek further to annoy a lady whom you have already sufficiently annoyed, it is not man's business to tell you what to do." "I have been followed her across the country," sneered Mauville. "Besides, since when have actresses become so chary of their favors?" In his anger the land baron threw out intimations he would have challenged the soldier to a duel if the stage then became a holly convent?" "You stamped you're a scoundrel some time ago," said the soldier slowly, as though weighing each word, "and now show yourself a coward when you malign a young girl without father, brother or husband."

"Over there," interrupted the land baron. "Perhaps, however, you were only traveling to see the country."

"Have you anything further with me?" interjected Saint-Prosper curiously.

The patroon, blushing, crouched, burning through his veins. The other's contemptuous manner stung him more fiercely than language.

"Yes," he said meaningfully, his eyes challenging Saint-Prosper's. "Have you any of Saint-Straws' fending rooms?"

Saint-Prosper hesitated a moment, and the land baron's face fell. Was it possible the other would refuse to meet him? But he would not let him off so easily. There were ways to force, and suddenly the words of the man quickened to recur to him, he surveyed the soldier dismally.

"Gad, you must come of a family of cowards and traitors! But you shall fight or— the public becomes arbiter!" And he half raised his arm threateningly.

The soldier's tanned cheek was now pale as a moment before it had been flushed. His mouth set resolutely, as though fighting back some weakness. With a few words and a shrug he regarded the land baron.

"I was thinking," he said at length, with an effort, "that if I killed you people would want to know the reason."

The patroon laughed. "How select you are for high warfare and minor skirmishes!" he said. "Do you think these rooms shall only be inches?" If so, I confess you would stand a fair chance of dispatching me. But your address? The St. Charles, I presume."

The soldier nodded curtly, and having accomplished his purpose, Mauville had turned to leave when loud voices in a front box near the right aisle attracted general attention from those occupying that part of the grand stand. The young officer who had accosted the patroon, who had been confronting the thickest man, the latest recruit to her corps of willing captives. The lad had assumed the arduous task of guarding the object of his fancy from all comers simply because she had been kind. And why should she be kind? She was old enough to be herself, an adviser. When, after a brief but pointed altercation, he flung himself away with a last reproachful look in the direction of his ensign. Susan looked him over, and her reward for being nice to a child!

"A fractions young cub," said the thickest man complacently.

"Well, I like cubs better than bears!" retorted Susan pointedly.

Her manner assured she had not observed the land baron, for at that moment she was looking in the opposite direction, endeavoring to discover Barnes or the others of the company.

Muttering some excuse to his unconscious companion and cutting short the wily old lady's reminiscences of the first public trotting race in 1818, the soldier left the box and, moving with the crowd through the great crowd, met Mauville in sight, not far from the way. The latter's face expressed surprise, not altogether of an agreeable nature, at the encounter, but he immediately regained his composure.

"Ah! Saint-Prosper," he observed easily. "I little thought to see you here."

"Nor I you," said the other bluntly.

The patroon gazed in seeming carelessness from the soldier to the young girl. Saint-Prosper's presence in New Orleans could not have escaped the soldier's depths of foliage came the chirp of the tree crickets and the note of the swamp owl. Faunt music, in measured rhythm, a foot to disconnect wood sound, was waited from a distant plantation.

He drew in his horses, and silently they listened. Or was he listening? His glance seemed bent so moodily, almost, on space she concluded he was not. She stole a sidelong look at him.

"A penny for your thoughts," she said gayly.

He started. "I was thinking how soon I might leave New Orleans."

"Leave New Orleans?" she repeated in surprise. "But I thought you intended to stay here. Why have you changed your mind?"

Did he detect a subtle accent of regret in her voice? A deep flush mounted to his brow. He bent over her suddenly, in a gesture of apology.

"Would it matter—if I went?"

She drew back at the abruptness of his words.

"How unfair to answer one question with another!" she said lightly.

A pause fell between them. Perhaps she, too, felt the sudden repulse of her own desire, the sudden constraint.

Perhaps some compunction moved her to add in a voice not entirely steady:

"And so you think—of going back to France?"

"Yes, I am thinking of France."

"I am not thinking of France."

File Answer to Suit.

An answer and counter-claim for $300,000 is filed this morning by the Kentucky Heating Company against the Louisville Gas Company in the suit brought some months ago by the latter corporation against the former. The action of the Gas Company was for $250,000 damages, alleged to have been done to the plaintiff by the sale of what was claimed to be mixed and manufactured gas for illuminating purposes. This, the Gas Company alleged, was an infringement of its character, which confers upon it the right to sell manufactured gas for illuminating purposes.

The petition of the Gas Company has passed through preliminary stages of hearing in Justice Miller's court and the Heating Company's answer and counter-claim will bring the question in controversy fairly to issue. The Gas Company claimed in its petition that the Heating Company had sold, mixed and manufactured gas since January 1, 1895, and asked that an accounting be given for the loss or business alleged to have been sustained. In answering these allegations the Heating Company merely makes formal denial of every charge. Tuesdays Times.

Mt. Carmel, Ky., Jan. 6, 1904.
Jno. D. Babbage, Cloverport, Ky.
Dear Sir: When I left Cloverport last summer I promised to write you an article for the paper sometime when the opportunity afforded. This morning seems to be the most opportune time. But if I should put a deal of pessimism into what I say it is not because I am a pessimist, for, on the other hand, I am an optimist in the extreme. God rules the universe and sooner or later all things will be for the best. But because I have been sick since Dec. 20, 1903, and am just now convalescing, I am getting unable to sit up long enough to get the charge of my church work. I took charge of this work November 1, 1903, and God has wonderfully blessed my work. I received twenty-one into the two churches in the two months I was able to work before I was compelled to stop.

This is a blue grass country just on the border of the mountains. I can stand at my window facing the North and see the mountains. Land sells for $40 per acre and produces annually from 40 to 50 bushels of corn to the acre a good crop year. Crops of all kinds were poor last year from two causes. In the first place the spring was very late and people did not get to plant their crops on time, then the summer was very dry and the crops did not mature. The principal products are wheat, corn, oats and tobacco. Stock raising, the Ebenezer church, at Cottages, in this county, was organized in 1798, making it 105 years old, one of the oldest churches in this part of the country.

I supply the Mt. Carmel and Ebenezer churches on alternate Sundays.

Yours truly
Rev. T. F. Walton.

Our Great Profit Sharing Contest

$15,000

--IN--

500 Cash Prizes

1st Prize, $5,000. 2nd Prize, $2,500 3d Prize $1,000
Seven Special Prizes of $500.00 Each for Early Estimates.

Every subscriber to THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS will have an opportunity to share in these magnificent prizes if he wishes to participate in the Great World's Fair Contest in which these prizes are given.

The biggest matter of this great contest is the Total Paid Admissions during May, the first month of the Great St. Louis World's Fair. Without doubt, the World's Fair which will open at St. Louis on May 1, will be the largest fair ever held in the world, and every man, woman and child should be interested in this great enterprise.

Conditions of this Great Contest.

Every subscriber who remits $1.00, the regular subscription price for a year's subscription to THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS, will receive one certificate which will secure for him any prize which his estimate entitles him to claim.

When you send in your subscription, also send your estimates of the total paid admissions at the World's Fair during May, the first month of the Fair. Write your name, address and estimate in the Subscription Blank below and mail it to THE BRECKENRIDGE NEWS.

The contest will close at midnight, April 30th, 1904, and no estimate received after that hour will be allowed. The official record of the Secretary of the World's Fair showing the total paid attendance during May, the first month of the Fair, will determine who are entitled to the prizes, and the awards will be made by a disinterested committee of prominent judges during the first week in June. As this contest will close on April 30, the day before the Fair opens, all will have an equal chance to win these prizes. Those who estimate or guess now will have a chance to win a Special Prize and just as good a chance to win the Capital Prize of $5,000.00 as the one who guesses on the last day of the contest.

The money to pay the prizes is deposited in the Central Savings Bank, Detroit, Michigan, and can be used for no other purpose. In case of a tie, or that two or more estimates are equally correct, prizes will be divided equally between them.

HERE IS THE LIST OF PRIZES.

In addition to the foregoing prizes the following

Valuable Information.

To aid in forming your estimates, we furnish the following figures:

The total paid admissions during May, the first month of the Chicago World's Fair, were 1,060,937

The total paid admissions during May, the first month of the St. Louis Pan-American Exposition, were 299,430

What will be the total paid admissions during May, the first month of the St. Louis World's Fair? Figure it out or guess at it and send in the figures of your guess. It may mean a great deal to you. The contest will close the day before the Fair opens, so that no advantage is gained by delay in estimating the result.

Send the figures of your estimates or guesses with your subscription.

Be careful to write your name, figures and P. O. plainly.

Don't fail to take advantage of the

THE FARMERS' MOVEMENT.

The farmers' movement is at right. If they can effect a strong combination and all pull together, the big farmer and the little farmer as well, they will be able to accomplish something that will benefit them. They have got work along the same lines as the tobacco trust. First form a strong combination of the leading farmers, then proceed to satisfy the small grower, the two to five acre man, either by buying his land or giving him a good bonus to go out of the business. When this is accomplished then the combination must select the best business farmer in the combination at a good salary to manage the combination and look after its affairs, and see that a certain amount of acreage is put out every year, so many acres in dark and so many in burley, just enough to keep up a good stiff demand from the Tobacco Trust. When the supply of the raw material is absolutely under the control of the producer he can dictate terms to the Tobacco Trust or manufacturers and get his own price. Just as long as the farmer over in the hollow and on the hill side with his five to ten acres of tobacco ground, the only source from which he can get immediate supplies for his family, is free to raise tobacco and sell to whom and at what price that satisfies him, just so long will he regulate the price. It is the small producer that is the factor in the production of tobacco, in fact, he is the man that controls in all the trades. The American Tobacco Co. never moved a peg until they got a little bit out of their business. Small men don't control in trusts. Neither does it in farming or in trades. It is money and brains and the knowing how, with backbone and energy thrown in that wins.

The Russo-Japanese war, after being fought in the newspapers for several months, has at last been practically begun by the opening of hostilities on the part of Japan. Japan has dispatched sixty transports of soldiers to Korea, where a landing will be effected, under the protection of a fleet of torpedo boats. The Japanese fleet has been sent to Port Arthur and a clash with the Russian fleet is imminent, according to late dispatches received in this country. American ships will be close at hand to see that Uncle Sam's interests are protected.

The United States is now the world's greatest exporter of domestic products. In 1875 she stood at the bottom of the list as compared with Great Britain and Germany. Now she stands first, as will be seen by the following report from the Department of Commerce and Labor.

United States, Britain, Germany.

1875 $ 467,000,000 $1,087,000,000 $ 363,000,000

1880 1,000,000,000 2,000,000,000 1,000,000,000

1890 1,453,000,000 1,417,000,000 1,097,000,000

1895 1,451,000,000 1,417,000,000 1,097,000,000

We are still only playing first fiddle in domestic products, but in most everything that goes to make a country great. And these exports give us some insight as to why farm products are so bright. Other countries are buying more of what the farmer raises every year and will continue to do it. The farmer should study statistics and keep in touch with the markets. Produce the things that are in demand and bring the best prices.

The great fire that raged in Baltimore from 11 o'clock Sunday morning until Monday evening, was one of the most disastrous conflagrations the world has ever known, and second only in this country to the great Chicago fire in 1871. For twenty-eight hours one hundred engines fought the fire, and now that the flames are checked Baltimore faces a loss of over $100,000,000 and a water famine. Provisionally only one person was killed and about fifty injured. The burned district covers 140 acres the wholesale and retail portion of the city, and 2,900 houses were destroyed. Six thousand business firms were destroyed and 50,000 people thrown out of employment. The arrival of soldiers from the burned area. Gov. Bradford of Maryland, has been asked to proclaim a ten days' holiday and a thirty-day extension on all legal papers. Restaurants are wiped out and a partial famine threatens. Aid will be given the people of the stricken city by all sister cities, the National government, and the Maryland Legislature. Baltimore's loss will be felt by all the commercial world, as it is one of the country's greatest marts.

PICKED UP ON THE ROAD.

Jesse M. Howard has bought a very fine lot of tobacco over at Glendale for the American Tobacco Co. He paid one and two-fifths for the best crops. He is still buying, but figures a little lower than the first purchase. Mr. Howard is a fine judge and a good handler of tobacco. He knows a good crop when he sees it and knows its value. He deals honestly and fairly with the farmers, giving them good weight and the top price for their crop. He is also buyer for the Ohio Valley Tie Co. for whom he has been working for ten or twelve years. His long service for this company is an endorsement of his business ability, his honesty, his integrity and his worth as a fine young business man.

Wm. Sipes of Hancock county, at West Point last Thursday. He is 22 years old, and reared in Breckinridge county, near Cloverport, and this was his first trip to Louisville. He has a grandfather in New Albany, Ind., who is 15 years old, is in good health and strong and vigorous for his years.

Thos. Lyddan was over at Glendale Saturday and bought of Robertson Bros. a pair of the finest 3-year-old mules in the country. He paid $350 for them and says he got a bargain.

Mrs. S. B. Schopp, of Stephensport is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Blitz, Louisville.

The greatest bargains ever offered in furniture. A beautiful line of calicos at 5 cents per yard. Take your butter, eggs and all kinds of country produce to Geo. McCubbins, Stephensport, and exchange them for these bargains.

Mr. Geo. Jamison, the timber and the man who has been confined to his room for over a year with rheumatism, is still active and in good health, although he has never leaves his room. He has two mills sawing for him, and has handled over a million feet of lumber during the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Payne went to Hardinsburg Monday.

HARDINSBURG.

John Mattingly, of Glendale, was here Sunday and Monday.

Preston Green, of Fall of Rough, was in the city Monday.

Allen R. Kinchloe spent several days in Louisville last week.

H. C. Murray returned home from Memphis, Tenn., last Monday.

Henry DeH. Moorman was in Louisville several days last week.

Miss Rosebud Moorman, of Glenview, was a visitor in town last week.

Godfrey Ball, of Caneyville, was here the first of the week visiting his mother.

Miss Annie Gaines, of Fordsville, is the charming guest of Miss Eunice Board.

W. Anderson, of Irvington, was here the first of the week visiting his parents.

Thomas Blythe, of Irvington, was visiting Tom C. Toney the first of the week.

Miss Nellie Moorman, of Glendale, is the guest of Gen and Mrs. David R. Murray.

Miss Alliene Murray returned home Wednesday from a visit to relatives at Cloverport.

D. S. Richardson and daughter, Miss Mary, from a visit of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Board last week.

The Rev. J. T. Durall, of Elizabethtown, presiding elder of this district, conducted Quarterly Meeting services at the M. E. church, South, last Saturday and Sunday.

Repairing done on watches, clocks, spectacles, rings, chains, charms, silverware, guitars, banjos, accordions, umbrellas, and all kinds of jewelry—Ewells & Ball, silversmiths and opticians.

As to Loans, Etc.

Real estate investments are, as a rule, the best paying property. The net results are generally very satisfactory. Of course the ideal real estate investment is the purchase money holdings of which there can be no quibbling as to payment.

First mortgages on real estate, if carefully placed, make a good investment. However, the greatest care should be taken by the man putting his money into mortgages to be sure that his is a first mortgage. He should also have some personal knowledge of the property on which he contemplates placing a lien, and be satisfied also that there are no prior mortgages or mechanic's liens existing. In this event he could not be defeated in the collection of his claim and all accrued interest.

TOMATOES AND TURNIPS.

What a Half Acre of Land Netted at the Mississippi Agricultural College.

The first crop grown was tomatoes. The varieties used were Beauty, Ace, Dwarf Champion and Magnus. The soil was of medium fertility and of a loamy nature. The tomato seed were planted in the greenhouse, and the plants were set out in the garden when they were about four inches tall they were put in two-inch pots and placed in a half hardy greenhouse until they were pot bound. By this time the plants were about eight inches tall; they were then transplanted (with soil) in five-inch plants bands in cold frames; the date of this planting was about March 1. Cotton seed hulls were kept in readiness as a covering, to be placed on the canvas in the event of a cold snap. Frequent ventilation and all the light possible was given on cold days, when the plants were too close together from the start. On April 10, the date plants were removed to the field, they had from one to two clusters of bloom on them. The soil was prepared in the garden the rail before, in rows four feet apart. Ten bushels of stable manure was applied before the soil was prepared. The plants were carried to the field on hand bars as carefully as possible to prevent breaking the soil, and were placed thirty inches apart in rows which had been previously opened for their reception. The bands were then removed by cutting the stems with a knife; soil was pulled around each seed with a hoe, and the planting was finished. Within a few days the plants had been pruned and tied to stakes. A straw berry plant was then planted between each tomato plant. Frequent but shallow cultivation was employed during the season. The plants were pruned so as to make two stems. The first tomatoes were gathered for market June 1, and were sold in local towns at from 90 cents to $1.50 per six-basket crate. Tomatoes on this half acre netted $200.

After the crop was removed it was found that a large per cent. of the plants had been destroyed by the rabbits. The soil was then prepared and all the remaining plants were buried in the bottom of the garden in top soil globe turnip seed. Seventy-five dollars worth of turnips were sold in the local markets from this planting. After the turnips were removed all of the mid-squares were replaced in berry plants and there is now a perfect stand.—Yazoo Sentinel.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Camphor. Camphor as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering through the mucous surface. Such ointments should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by J. F. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by J. F. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle.

Louisville Live Stock Market.

Reported by Dan Brooks & Co., Central Stock Yards.

Louisville, Feb. 8.—Cattle—Arrivals for today's market were fairly liberal. The offerings, which consisted principally of butcher selections, moved readily, all the tidy butcher steers and heifers being in strong demand, values for the best being up 10 higher. All classes of butcher steers and heifers, and all offerings were readily disposed of at fall market values. Bulls, cannibal, fresh cows and springers ruled firm, with all arrivals in active demand. Stockers and feeders of the best selections remained steady; others slow at quotations. Prime heavy shipping steers were in strong demand at top market values, while the rough, half-fatted kinds were unchanged. Pigs were well cleared and the market closed firm.

Calves—Choice veals $5 to $5.50; extra $5.75; others $3.50 to $4.50.

Hogs—There was a moderate supply on sale today; and the market opened with prices generally 10c higher. All arrivals were quickly absorbed at the following prices: Choice hogs, 160 pounds and up, $5.10; 120 to 160 pounds $4.65; pigs $4.35; rough $4 to $4.40. Prospects steady.

Sheep and Lambs—There was a light supply on sale and all the best fat sheep and butcher lambs were ready sale at strong market prices.

BRECKENRIDGE NEWS, Cloverport, Ky.

There is an old saying like this: "Judge a man not by his clothes, but by his face." The saying holds good on some occasions, but when a man applies it 365 days in the year he finds himself a loser in the end. So it is with cheap stationery. Cheap clothes and cheap stationery have about the same deadening effect on a man's business. Before you got your good little wifey you put on your best duds and everything else you had good when you called on her—simply because you were after the "best" and of course used the best in your possession and power to get the "best." It is the same way with business, if you want the best you must go after it with the best—the best stationery. Like we turn out, for instance. If you don't know about the work we turn out, write us and we will gladly inform you. Thanks to you for reading this—but if you will abide by its meaning it will be mutually profitable.

We give a man all he wants to eat and all the coffee he can drink, for a quarter.

Open night and day.

PROFIT

The matter of feed is of tremendous importance to the farmer. Wrong feeding is loss. Right feeding is profit.

The up-to-date farmer knows what to feed his cows to get the most milk, his pigs to get the most pork, his hens to get the most eggs. Science.

But how about the children? Are they fed according to science, a bone food if bones are soft and undeveloped, a flesh and muscle food if they are thin and weak and a blood food if there is anemia?

Scott's Emulsion is a mixed food; the Cod Liver Oil in it makes flesh, blood and muscle, the Lime and Soda make bone and brain. It is the standard scientific food for delicate children.

Send for free sample.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the reverse side of the bottle of Emulsion you buy.

DEDICATION ON NEXT SATURDAY

Next Saturday the Kentucky building at the Louisville Purchase Exposition will be dedicated with fitting ceremonies. The dedication will be made the occasion of the formal transfer of the building from the Exhibit Association to the commissioners recently named by Gov. Beckham, under the provisions of the act making an appropriation of $75,000 to supplement the fund raised by the association for the State's representation at the exposition.

The dedicatory exercises will embrace a welcome address by President Francis, himself a transplanted Colonel; the tender of the building by President A. Y. Ford, of the Exhibit Association to Gov. Beckham, and his acceptance of the same.

Saturday's programme also includes an elaborate luncheon, given by President David B. Francis and other exposition officers at the Hall of Congresses on the exposition ground, before the speech-making, etc. in the Kentucky building and a banquet by the Kentucky Society of St. Louis at night.

The members of the Kentucky Exhibit Association, headed by Governor Beckham and the General Assembly will go to St. Louis Friday on a special train tendered the Exhibit Association by the Louisville and Nashville and Louisville, Henderson and St. Louis railroads. On Friday night, Feb. 12, prior to the departure of the train to the World's Fair city, a banquet will be given the legislators by Louisville's commercial organizations.

Heavy Fine in Bird Laws.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 8.—If the Senate passes the bill which went through the House today there will be a heavy fine for the sale of any quail, partridge, pheasant, grouse or wild turkey killed in this state. It will not only be unlawful to sell any of these game birds killed in Kentucky but it will also be a violation of the law for any persons or corporation to transport the birds to any market.

Hotels, restaurants and individuals will have to kill their own birds or else buy birds that have been brought here from other states.

Will be The Northwest.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—A contract has been let for refitting and redecorating the Irondequoit theater, which 72 persons were to let on Dec. 30, last.

It will be uncertain whether the Irondequoit would open again as a playhouse, but the letting of the contract for repairs indicates that the theater will be reopened to the public as a place of amusement. The cost of the repairs will be about $22,000, and the management hopes to reopen the house in the early spring.

It is said the name of the theater will be changed to the "Northwest."

Hanna Resting Better.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Senator Hanna's condition tonight was a little more encouraging, though the extreme weakness which has been the most feature of his illness, continues. He had a fairly quiet day, rested a little better and there was less irritability of the stomach, so that the Senator was able to take more nourishment than for some days.

MUCH ACREAGE NOW OBTAINED.

Present conditions indicate that the J. T. Polk company's branch cannery factory in this city will have a big run lasting several months this year. F. D. Whitneek, the local manager, is experiencing little difficulty in securing contracts for the desired acreage which is, of course, the first requisite to the successful operation of the plant.

The farmers in this section are realizing this year more than last that it is profitable to grow canned crops when compared to tobacco and some other crops they have been raising, there being some who will put in as high as ten acres of canned crops this year. A fixed market and a fixed price for their products is a good thing for the farmers and, indirectly, for the town. A large acreage will mean money for the farmers and also for the 150 or 200 persons who will be employed at the cannery. With last year's excess, there will be more added in their work and, of course, will be paid more than last year. As to the local stockholders in the plant, the main factory at Greenwood, stands good for their dividends.

Farmers at Skillman, Tobingsport, and near this city have signed contracts to raise 300 acres of tomatoes for the exclusive use of the J. T. Polk company's at 19 cents per bushel. About thirty farmers at Skillman made contracts with Manager Whitneek last week, to put in from two to ten acres each. All the land made over to this city will be put in tomatoes and the remaining number in Tobins' Bottom. Local growers will deliver their tomatoes at the cannery and outside growers at the nearest shipping point, the J. T. Polk company to pay for transportation to their plant. The tomato seed is furnished free to all growers.

Next week Mr. Whitneek will begin contracting for sweet corn, at $8 per ton, his company wanting 800 acres of this crop.

The cannery season for corn will begin the first of July and continue until the first frost. The first tomatoes will be harvested in the middle of July, three weeks earlier than last year. Previous to the corn season more machinery will be installed in the cannery and probably an addition built. The cannery had an exceptionally good run last year and is expected to do still better this year.

When You Have A Cold.

The first action when you have a cold should be to relieve the lungs. This can be accomplished by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This Remedy liquefies the tough mucus and causes its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs, produces a free expectoration, and opens the secretions. A complete cure soon follows. This remedy will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment and it leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. It counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. ### In Memory of Dr. Meador.

Dr. J. W. Meador was born Nov. 6, 1888; departed this life Jan. 13, 1904, aged 65 years, two months and seven days. Dr. Meador was much beloved by his many friends, and was admired by all who knew him for his intelligence and ability.

For years he wrote for the county papers and few there were who could write more interestingly. His prose was strong and forceful and that had the poetical faculty is shown by several of his poems published years ago.

He was an eloquent public speaker and was twice elected by the Republicans of Ohio county to the Kentucky Legislature at a time when the county was strongly Democratic.

He many times rendered personal service and they always supported him. Dr. Meador never acquired any wealth. His early manhood was a struggle with poverty.

Aching Joints

In the fingers, toes, arms, and other parts of the body, are joints that are inflamed and swollen by rheumatism—that acid condition of the blood which affects the muscles also.

Sufferers dread to move, especially after sitting or lying long, and their condition is commonly worse in wet weather.

"I have been a long time since we have been around Hood's Sarsaparilla. My father thinks he could not do without it. He has been troubled with rheumatism and has been taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the only medicine he can take that will enable him to take his place in the family. Mrs. D. D. Port, Sidney, Ohio.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find It.
Fill a bottle with common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours. A sediment or settling indicates an affection of the kidneys; if it stains your linen, it is kidney trouble; to frequent desire to pass water or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

There is considerable in the knowledge so often expressed that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the greatest kidney remedy fulfills many of the requirements of the claim. It is a root, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing urine. It affects the effects of having wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times at night. The value of the extraordinary power of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderous properties. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery.

about a month, it costs nothing absolutely for by making a few changes in your diet, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, Birmingham, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, Birmingham, N. Y. When writing me, reading this general offer in this paper.

Resolving to become a physician, he had many difficulties to overcome but, in 1869, he graduated in medicine from the University of Louisville.

Then began his life's work of ministering to the afflicted and hundreds today will affirm that he nobly did his duty. Always ready to help the suffering for many years he never refused a call if he could possibly make it; and spent his life in constant toil. I do not know how it has been in recent years, but he need not be asked for any more detail. If his patients could pay them generally did so, the rest he trusted to pay what they were able. He understood the management of typhoid fever and for years he never lost a case that was intrusted to him from the beginning.

Anxius to improve in his chosen profession, he at different times took additional courses at Louisville University and in 1892 he took a course in eye, nose, ear and throat diseases at a Clinic in Chicago. Just a few days before his death, although in very feeble health, he rode several miles to a physician's office. On his way home he became so exhausted that he was compelled to stop at a house by the road before proceeding onward. His reputation as a physician, in his locality, was second to none, and as a friend he was faithful and true.

Dr. Meador was twice married: the first time to Miss America V. Matthews, who died Oct. 20, 1881. On Nov. 29, 1892, he was married to Miss Mattie Herndon, of Trisler, Ky., who survives him.

On Jan. 17, 1904, in the presence of a large concourse of friends and in a special service conducted to his accordance to his wishes, all in the presence of Dr. Meador was laid to rest, there to await the resurrection morn.

Dr. Meador was a member of the Presbyterian church and also of the Masonic Lodge. The funeral will be preached sometime in the future and the masons will have services at the same time, due notice of which will be given.

Mr. Dick at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 26, 1904.—Mr. J. D. Babage.—Dear Friend: Please enclose $1. for the News, which you will please send to 3205 S. Figueroa street.

I have been in Los Angeles, since January 10. It is one of the busiest cities I have ever seen. The hotels are over run with people, wages are very good, real estate people are doing a land office business, and many, eight, ten and twelve story buildings are being erected, which will make this one of the greatest cities in the West. The climate is fine and like mid summer in the North. I have been enjoying the fine fruits here, the strawberries being the finest I have ever seen.

I notice in the News you have had quite a boom in Cloversport. I have not received the last four issues of the News. Please send them beginning from January 1.

Yours and oblige,
H. W. Dick.

WAS A BAPTIST FOR 62 YEARS.

Capt. A. S. English, an aged and well-known citizen, died at his home in this city last Thursday morning at 6:40 o'clock of general debility. His health had been failing for some time but he was bedfast only three days before his death, which was peaceful and without much suffering.

Capt. English was born on January 3, 1824, in Indiana, coming to Elizabethtown, Ky., in 1840, after which he came to a farm in Breckinridge county, where he owned a large farm for many years. He was twice married and his children were born and reared at Webster's. His first wife was Miss Martha Chick of Bewleyville. In 1866 he married a Miss Williams, of Tennessee, who survives. About fourteen years ago Capt. English came to this city with his family.

He served during the Civil War in General Forrest's Confederate cavalry. He had command of company in the Third Kentucky Regiment and was advanced through the ranks.

Capt. English was a member of the Baptist church for sixty-two years and lived a life consistent with his faith. The Western Recorder stated last year that he was the oldest living Baptist in the State.

A widow and the following children survive: Mrs. Ella LaNeave, of Franklin, Tenn.; Edward, of the Philippines Islands; Smith, of Louisiana; and Frank, of this city. Rev. H. S. English, of Stephensport, is a nephew.

The funeral was held at the Baptist church Friday afternoon, the pastor, Dr. C. S. Christian, officiating. The interment was in the city cemetery.

Cures Kidney and Bladder Disease.

Seated Cases, Aching Back, Mucus Discharge, Etc.

For old, obstinate, deep-seated, Kidney, Bladder and Urinary diseases give the bottle of Electric Kidney Specific. If you have agonizing pains in back, swollen legs or abdomen discharges from the urethra, neuralgia of the bladder, burning sensation or difficulty in passing water, also a frequent desire or even involuntary discharges of the urine, Bright's disease, disagreeable taste of the urine, scanty and high colored, you know the bladder is bad.

The Bright's disease is specific. Soon all the symptoms disappear. The burning sensation stops and perfect health is guaranteed.

Electric Kidney Specific gives strength, power and health to the kidney and acts directly on the uric acid and kidney trouble.

Please let to the taste. Especially adapted for chronic cases that resist all other treatment. per large bottle at my store or by express mail or write to A. E. Fisher, Cloverport, Ky.

Comes Out For Senate.

Elizabethtown, Feb. 4.—Congressman David H. Smith, of the Fourth district, has just made the formal announcement of his candidacy for the tuga of Senator J. C. S. Blackburn, and is already active in his campaign. Gov. Bent, of Kentucky, who was announced as a candidate, having declared he would not be a candidate, has been declared a candidate, having declared he would not be in the race. The chances of Representative Smith have thereby been materially advanced, so he thinks. Congressman Smith has this to say: "I am a candidate for United States senator, and my friends in Kentucky are aware of it, although I have as yet made no formal announcement of it. There is really no need of it, as the election does not take place until next year, but I will be in the race at the beginning and also at the finish. I consider my prospects of this time very encouraging, and Senator Blackburn will find me no easy opponent."

Were From Breckenridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Taylor, who were born, reared and married in Breckenridge county, celebrated the fiftieth or golden anniversary of their wedding at their home on West Main street, Owensboro, last week. Mr. Taylor is seventy-eight and Mrs. Taylor, seventy-three. They moved to Daviess county on March 11, 1871.
